Architectural & Designer Concepts

“We develop wellness areas.”

“Innovative products cannot be developed just by sitting at a desk. A direct connection to real life applications is absolutely essential.” This statement by Helmut Wedi, founder of wedi GmbH, not only describes the character of our company over the last few decades, it has also become a philosophy and mission statement for the whole wedi team. We recognize the advantages of being a family run company and place great value on consistently putting these benefits into practice. Fast decision-making, ongoing employee training, critical questioning of our own performance and products, remaining close to our clients and the marketplace: these are key factors that wedi lives by every day without fail. Our challenge is to retain our traditional values while being innovative and authentic. Our areas of activity are divided into building materials, design line and customized building. Anyone looking for load-bearing, formed or formable impermeable tiling substructures will be sure to find a wide range of sophisticated building materials at wedi. As well as providing our clients with a number of standard products, we also provide solutions to just about any conceivable problem in the form of sophisticated customized designs.

wedi customers appreciate our comprehensive and certified standards for quality, profit from our delivery and reliability plus the professional expertise and support from our sales and customer service employees. All these are manifest in the enhanced cost benefits achieved with the wedi premium brand. To ensure it stays that way, hundreds work on a daily basis both in-house and overseas developing products and services – yesterday, today and tomorrow.

A Concept with Strong Foundations

wedi's Range of Solutions, Backed by Customized Full Service

Unlike ever before, discerning homeowners want their bathrooms to be true wellness centers. As demand for innovative wellness products grows, wedi is at the forefront, inventing solutions to meet every need and desire and to fit any architectural or building specification. wedi works in partnership with designers, architects and builders to create workable systems for the most unique design variations.

From idea to installation, wedi is there.

From Idea to Installation...

Partners from A to Z

Starting a new custom project? You have our promise: wedi will support you right from the start. The moment you place an order, our team goes into action. We generate tailored CAD drafts based on your ideas and plans. We produce customized products crafted of impermeable extruded polystyrene hard foam material expressly for steam and wetrooms. We run tests on the assemblies to ensure all works beautifully before we supply you with all components, ready to install.

We understand our products are just part of your project. That's why we create and work in concert with your chosen lighting concepts, heating systems and preferred shower technology. wedi is at your side in all areas, at all times.

1. You've got an idea.

Don't hold back as you envision a wellness product solution for your next project. Contact wedi; we're ready to help bring your idea to life.

2. We plan together.

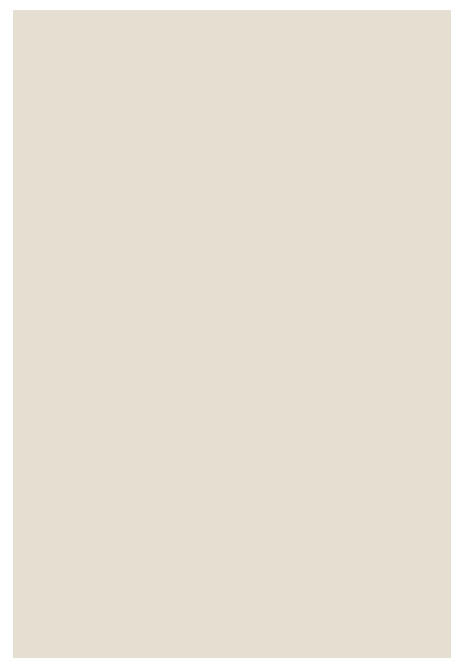

wedi provides integrated project planning, to ensure all components, shower technologies, drains and supply pipes are incorporated into your vision properly for unified performance.

3. We provide made-to-measure products.

Always with your approval, we produce solutions that fit your specifications and requirements perfectly. Then we assure the system measures up in terms of performance through trial assemblies at our factory prior to shipping.

4. We deliver on time.

We deliver all prefabricated components on time and in their entirety, with complete step-by-step instructions, so you can take your idea to installation and bring your vision to life.

Real Advantages

The Art of Smart Design: The wedi Quality Advantage

Your unique project deserves the highest quality materials and superior construction. With a commitment to integrity of design from the inside out, wedi offers the advantages you need and advanced alternatives you didn't know were possible.

We use extruded polystyrene hard foam and specialist facings to achieve an array of high performance properties in every product and system we manufacture. Moisture-protection, heat insulation, advanced materials to support tile and other coatings—we've thought of everything to ensure your project installs beautifully and performs exceptionally.

wedi's versatile building panels allow you to create extraordinary works of art with no borders and no limits regarding possibilities of shapes, configurations and applications. These panels come in a wide range of thicknesses and are easy and flexible in processing to perform many functions—serve as a supporting material on a wall, clad old subsurfaces and pipes, work as a subfloor system—all allowing for highly customized bathroom furniture. Likewise, wedi building panels are ideal as an adhesive substrate for many materials, including tile and plaster.

Diversity of Shape Through Advanced Technology

No matter the shape or size of the installation you envision, we can produce it without compromising quality. With our hands-on know-how, we're adept in the installation of hot water heating systems, electrical components and showers of varying types and technology. Additionally, we supply glass doors and frames and other glass elements to incorporate into your design. Should you need lighting (LED or halogen) and sound technology, wedi's network of experienced specialists is your go-to source for A to Z solutions.

Customized Building

Discover Personalized Service for Your Custom Building Project

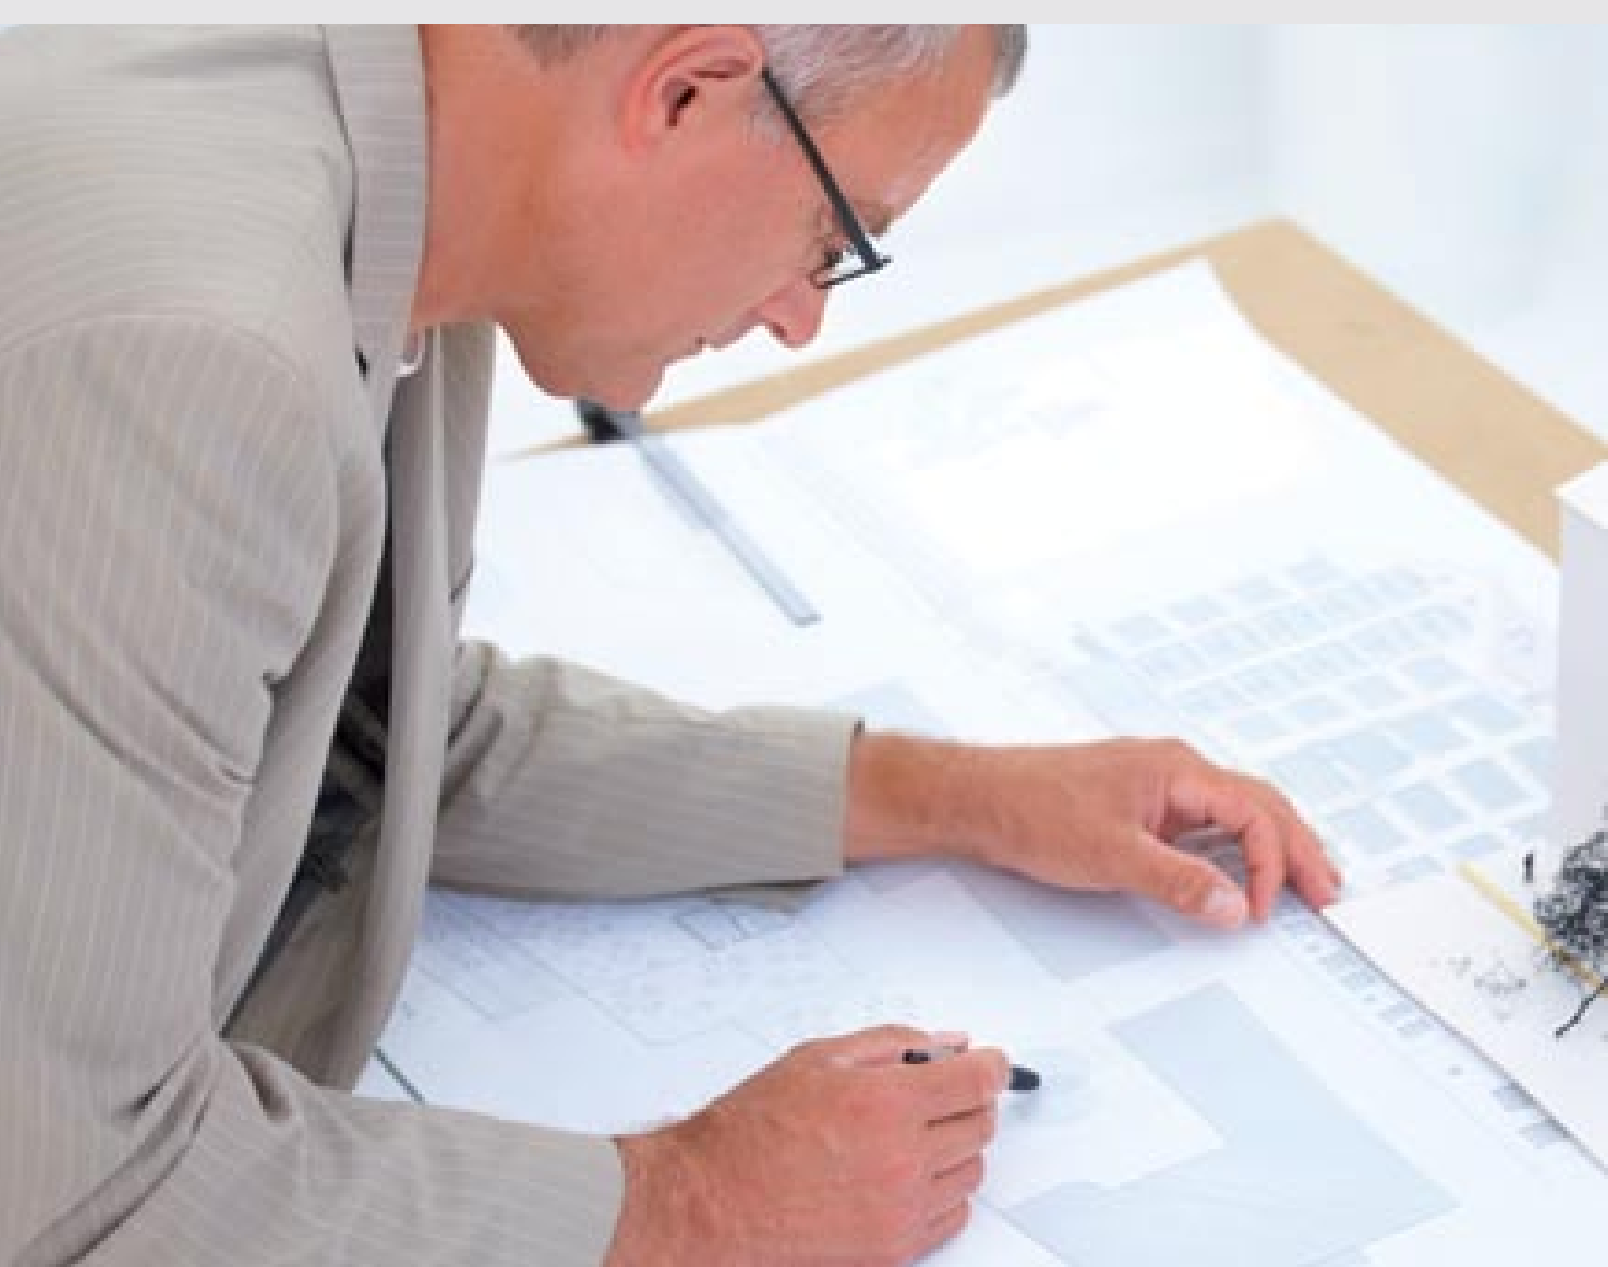

wedi is your tour guide through the world of contemporary wellness offerings. As demand for wellness products grows and technology evolves, more options become available and we're the competent partner you need to make your custom project a personal success. As leaders in the industry—always ahead of the trends—we're ready to navigate you into this increasingly important and popular category.

Where the Vision Meets Quality

wedi's wellness offerings are ideal for the demands of the marketplace. In a busy, fast-paced world, our steam baths, classic saunas, sophisticated massage technologies, loungers and special baths are designed to bring relaxation, rest and renewal to any home or commercial environment. Whether part of a new building project or a renovation for an existing home or facility, we provide impermeable, beautiful elements to create wellness escapes.

Case Study: Bad Wörishofen THERMAL BATHS

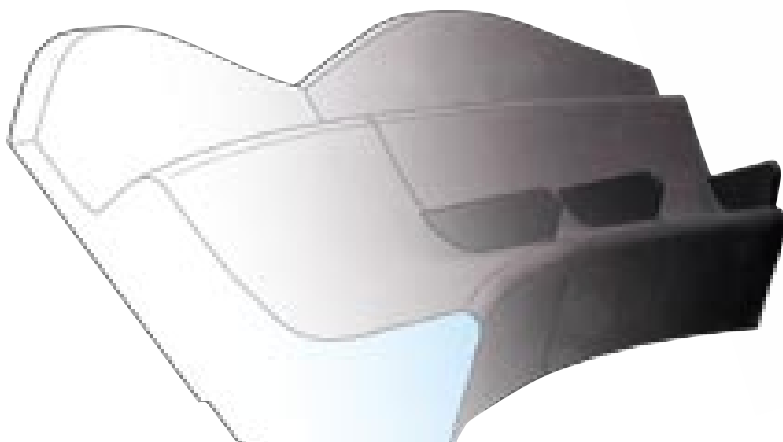

The Planning

Bad Wörishofen THERMAL BATHS is an exquisite example of wedi's vast capabilities in creating wellness retreats of grand scale.

The project began as a vision to create an extravagant and highly modern wellness landscape. The team of Bad Wörishofen THERMAL BATHS envisioned creating a true wellness center; a restorative oasis in an overly busy world. The wedi team set about making the vision a reality, first with drawings of the complete building project as well as detailed plans for each individual product that would be included. The drawings were quite extensive, including all details and accommodations for optical and technical requirements.

The Production

Upon completion of the drawings, the Bad Wörishofen team reviewed and approved the plans and the custom production began. All building elements, equipping components, accessories and assembly materials were produced step-by-step and tested in the wedi factory in trial assemblies to ensure proper fit and function.

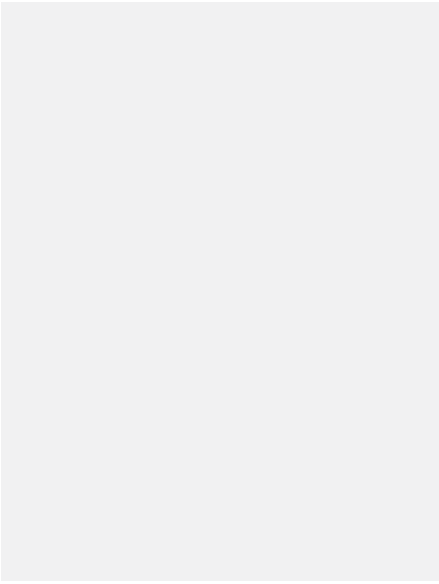

The Assembly

wedi carefully packed and shipped all components to the installation site and then remained on hand to oversee the full assembly and installation process. Each element of the project was designed for ease and economy of on-site assembly, yet wedi employees were available at all times to advise and assist on location. Thanks to the exceptionally short drying times of wedi products, tiling could begin immediately after assembly, saving on labor costs and time for this lavish project.

The final result is truly phenomenal. Bad Wörishofen THERMAL BATHS is a world-class, totally unique wellness center—a complete landscape of beauty and relaxation, created with timeless design and lasting quality.
